In the heart of the redeveloped Penn District, 116 West 32nd Street puts tenants at the center of one of New York's most connected locations.

Steps from Penn Station, Moynihan Train Hall and Herald Square, the building offers unparalleled access to the city and the entire region, along with full-floor opportunities that give tenants greater privacy, flexibility and identity at an exceptional value.

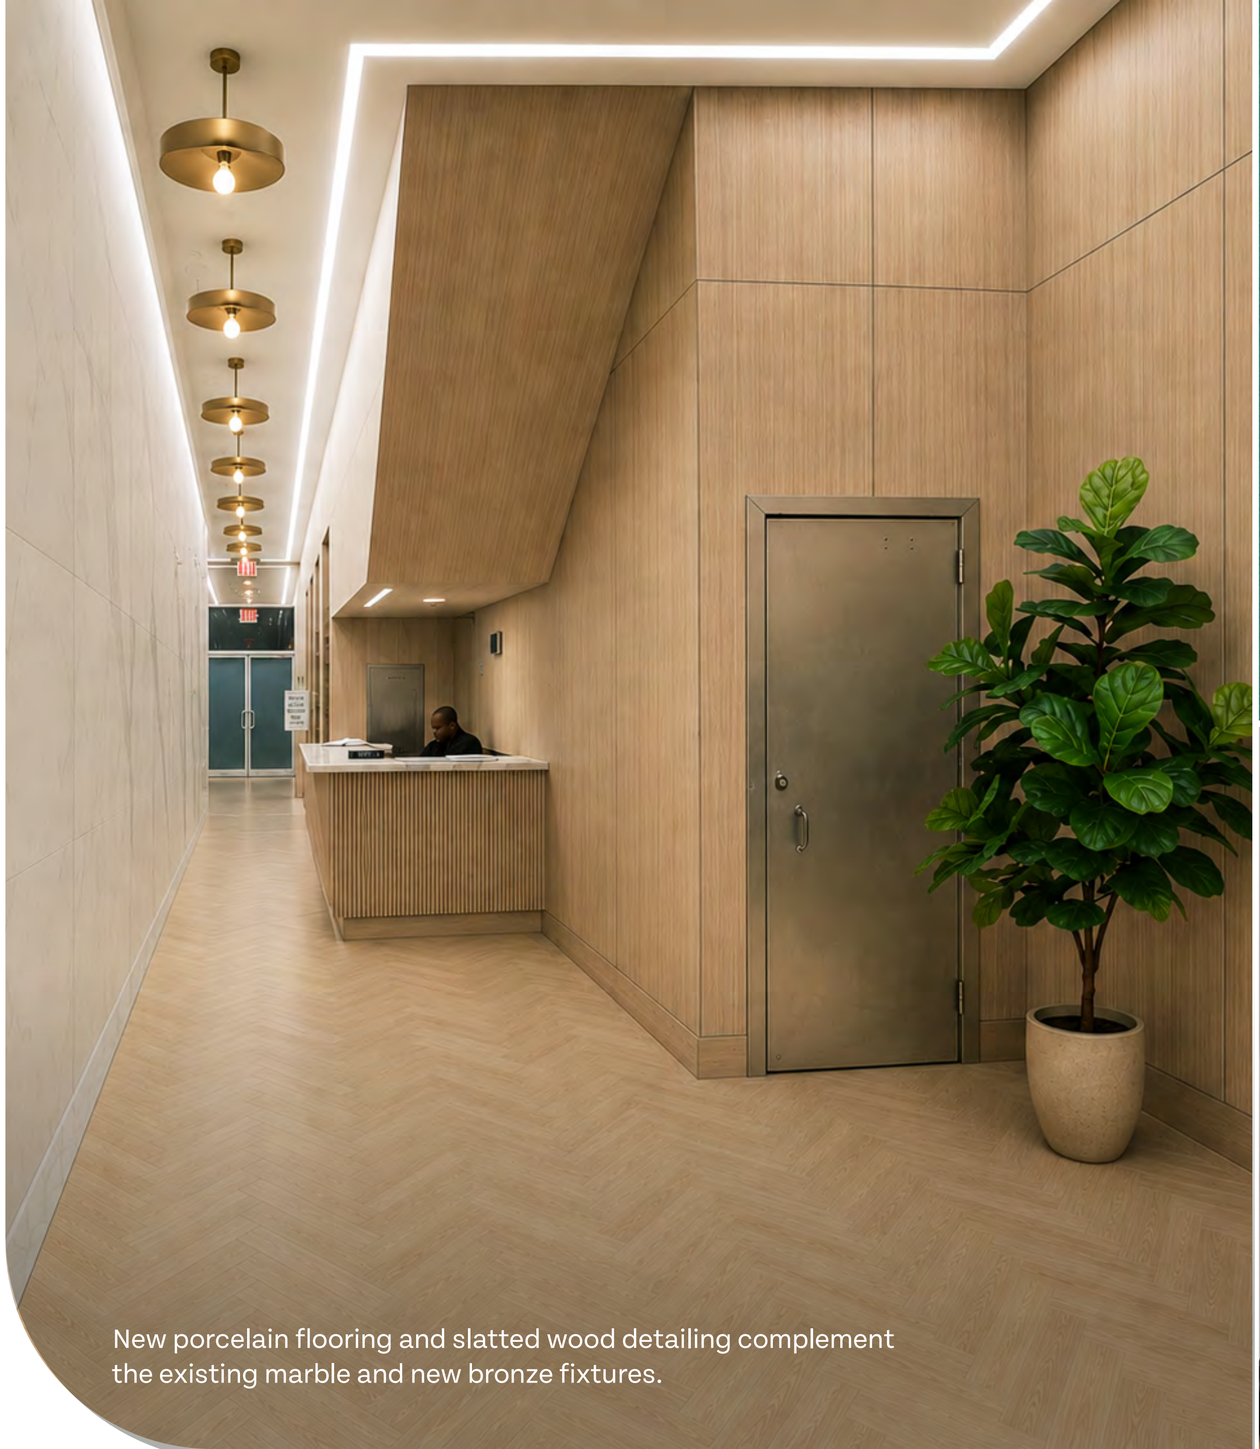

Originally associated with the historic Gimbels complex, the building's distinctive skybridge remains an iconic reminder of its past—and a fitting symbol for its future.
